EGYPT IS IN DANGER?

Read Open to Constantinople Means Reinforcements Can Be Sent There to Aid in Defense of Positions.

London, Oct. 29.—The first phase of the Austro-German-Bulgarian campaign in Serbia is completed. Not only have the invaders of Serbia realized the important objective of joining hands in the northeastern corner of the country, but they have enhanced this military advantage by procuring free passage down the Danube for their flotilla of steamers. It is said to be already waiting to transport war material and it is stated confidentially that the Austro-German and Bulgarian leaders cannot but be satisfied with these arrangements. Bulgaria's ammunition shortage soon should be relieved, and her offensive power greatly strengthened.

From the north the Germans and Austrians are advancing over a wide front which runs slightly southeast from Valjevo and swings in a broad curve northeast almost to the Danube at Vidovo, where it joins the right wing of the Bulgarians.

Rumor continues to ascribe to the Greek government intentions hostile to the entente powers, even going so far as to say Greece has an understanding with Bulgaria and at the psychological moment will fall upon the allied troops which landed at Saloniki. No such designs are really credited to Greece in London, but England and France continue to watch the political situation at Athens with unceasing anxiety.

Sir Edward Grey, the foreign secretary, said today that Greece's espousal of the cause of the central powers was an impossibility and similar assurances come from authoritative Greek sources.

Report Advances.
Berlin, Oct. 29.—The Serbian forces opposing the Teutonic advance on the western border of Serbia, have been thrown across the frontier east of Valjevo. German army headquarters, however, for Austro-German and for Bulgarian forces in other sectors of the Serbian front.

London, Oct. 29.—Reuters' Athens correspondent learns from Serbian sources that the French operating in the Balkans are now concentrating the heights of Valandovo, Rebrava and Tatar Lisic. These heights dominate Strumitza, which is not expected to hold out much longer against the French attack.

There is no recent news in Athens from the northern Serb front. It is reported that Turkey is about to rescind its decree for confiscation of the property of belligerents, owing to a threat of the entente powers to confiscate German property in belligerent countries.

Most is no longer obtainable in these towns.

WORK ON NEW ANGLE IN BOMB PLOT CASE

New York, Oct. 29.—Secret service men assigned to the cases of Robert Ayres, the confessed bomb plotter, and four others, charged with conspiracy in planning to disable ships laden with war munitions for the allies, are working on a new angle in the case. The bombs used by Ayres were similar to those which had caused fires on certain trans-Atlantic ships last summer. As late as last month small bombs were reported to be used with sugar. The circumstances drew the attention of secret service men to the case. One was that the fires on the ships were caused by fluoride of potash, the same material which Ayres was using in preparing bombs to attach to ships' rudders and propellers. Another circumstance was that several of the ships on board which fire was discovered had sailed from piers in the Hudson river, not far from the boat houses at West 47th street, where Ayres, with Walter L. Scholz, his brother-in-law, kept a powerful motor boat, together with explosives.

After a conference called by Secretary Garrison, which lasted two hours, it was indicated no agreement had been reached. The board and committee will hold regular sessions with officers of the regular army. The view was expressed that adequate support of the national guard by the federal government and the public would assure all the continental army plan was intended to produce. Federalization of the National Guard was regarded as the primary step to this end. Secretary Garrison refused to make any statement.

QUOTA SYSTEM OF RAISING TROOPS IS OLD ONE IN ENGLAND

London, Oct. 29.—The quota system which Lord Kitchener is said to advocate as a compromise between the present voluntary enlistment system and conscription is a historic method of raising troops that existed in England from the sixteenth century down to the year 1832. It is now merely suspended, not dead.

By the quota system, Great Britain would be divided into military districts, each of which is required to send its quota of a required number of recruits. It is a form of compulsion, but a democratic form that stood the test of centuries. The special militia are its appeal to local patriotism and its civil control. Each locality has the power to enforce enlistment if other means fail, but a large number of additional voluntary recruits will be found in the militia. The quota system is a more personal and less emotional than by the military recruiting with their bands and speech-making armies.

There are many statutes on the English books relating to the quota system, which can be enforced at any time by an order of the Privy Council, with the approval of Parliament. Some changes were made from the old methods in 1577 when the various counties were instructed to proportion their quota among the various parishes where the men, in case of necessity, were to be chosen by ballot. This law placed the age of service from 15 to 30 years, exempting all men with more than one child born in wedlock. Because for the Napoleon wars were then raised in 1833 the old militia passed from the control of the counties to the war office, and the system of district selection was allowed to lapse.

TWENTY-ONE GIRLS VICTIMS OF BLAZE IN PEABODY SCHOOL

Death List Practically Determined.—Search Blackened Shell for Cause of Fire.

Peabody, Mass., Oct. 29.—Within the blackened brick shell of what yesterday morning was St. John's parochial school men searched today for the cause of the fire, which cost the lives of 21 girls.

Early today five bodies remained unidentified while five girls were reported missing. Search for the cause of the fire to the condition of unclaimed bodies the positive identification probably will be impossible.

Search for possible additional bodies was made under direction of Chief of Police Grady, while inspectors of the state police were trying to ascertain the cause of the fire.

The only fact substantiated was that the flames originated in a small store room in the basement, which was locked. It is known it was customary to place waste paper and sweepings in wooden barrels in this room.

According to sisters of the order of Notre Dame, who had charge of the school, nothing else was there. This room was closely examined today for evidence showing the fire started.

Plans for public funeral were discussed today and plans placed in hands of Rev. Nicholas J. Murphy pastor of St. John's church.

Police Complete Investigation.

RUSH TROOPS FOR BATTLE WITH VILLA

FIVE THOUSAND CARRANZA SOLDIERS LEAVE EAGLE PASS BOUND FOR AUGUA PRIETA.

DECISIVE FIGHT PENDING

Carranza Concentrates His Troops for Engagement With Rebel Chief Near United States Boundary Line.

Eagle Pass, Tex., Oct. 29.—It is expected that the 5,000 Carranza troops to be sent from Eagle Pass, Texas, to Douglas, Arizona, to reinforce the Carranza garrison at Agua Prieta, across the international line, will enable the special trains carrying southern Pacific today. Cannon, arms, ammunition and supplies have been loaded on the American side. Railroad officials have been at work day and night assisting in the entraining.

Expected at Douglas.
Douglas, Ariz., Oct. 29.—Twenty-five hundred men with their arms in bond in a sealed car, will arrive here from Piedras Negras, Coahuila, tomorrow, it was stated by the Mexican consul here. A similar force will follow Sunday or Monday.

Sixteen seventy-five millimeter, or three inch guns, and two machine guns, arrived today in bond for General Calles, the consul said.

Villa Menaces Americans.
Two developments in the Mexican situation stirred civil and military authorities along the border today. Carranza, Ariz., was reported upon reliable authority to have issued a proclamation from Sonora to the effect that since the United States had refused to recognize Carranza, Villa authorities were not responsible for the lives of Americans in Sonora.

Chief, the Taqui Indian, demanded twenty-five thousand dollars from the Southern Pacific railway of Mexico, under pain of destruction of the railroad's property if not paid. Thirty Americans were taken into custody in Elitigro, some of whom are already in the hands of Villa troops, are believed to be facing a critical situation as a result of the Randall proclamation.

Villa Needs Supplies.
The Villa forces have not been sighted but an attack is expected at any hour. Villa's situation, it was stated, will permit no reinforcements for his troops are in a country practically without water, with scant provisions and no excess ammunition.

Obregon Sends 14,000.
Laredo, Tex., Oct. 29.—Fourteen thousand men, with twenty-five cannon, have been detached from General Obregon's forces at Torreon and have been sent overland to Sonora, in addition to the force of 5,000 sent through American territory to Douglas, Arizona, to concentrate at Agua Prieta, where a battle is expected with Villa forces. First Chief Carranza still remains in Sonora.

Discontinue Villa Consulate.
El Paso, Oct. 29.—The Villa consulate has ended its official existence here. Announcements of its discontinuance were made by the consul, Francis McManus.

Villa in Last Stand.
Douglas, Ariz., Oct. 29.—Preparations were completed today for the third battle of the border. Since the outbreak of the war in Mexico in 1910, five thousand American troops with sixteen three-inch guns, are mobilized here to meet the advance of the Villa army.

Fighting may begin today or sometime next week. That is dependent upon the plans, disposition and condition of the Villa troops.

Bandits Attack Troops.
Brownsville, Tex., Oct. 29.—Bandits early today made two attacks on a half company of United States infantry stationed at Capote, a village about sixty-five miles from the Rio Grande from here. No casualties were reported on either side.

News of a battle fought on Mexican soil between a detachment of Carranza soldiers and a band of bandits, said to be under Luis De La Rosa, who was earlier reported to have moved his camp, was received in Matamoros today. It was rumored that De La Rosa had been captured.

This is coincident with the announcement at Matamoros headquarters that First Chief Carranza had issued an order for his soldiers to chase bandits from the Mexican border until all were killed or captured.

CONFERENCE GAMES HOLD INTEREST IN SATURDAY'S GAMES

Illinois and Minnesota, Wisconsin, Chicago Games Are Most Important of Schedule.

(By Striker.)

With the reign of the "Big Three," Harvard, Yale and Princeton, apparently effectively ended through defeat in the east, interest turns to conference football tomorrow. The western games far outclass those on the eastern schedule from the interest standpoint, as two of the games have championships hinged on the results.

The most important football squabble in the conference is a dual between Illinois and Minnesota at Urbana, Ill., tomorrow. Both teams have been undefeated and are considered the real contenders, with Wisconsin, for the big nine title. Illinois was tied by Ohio State, it is true, but the team which the scrappy Ohio team held to a 3 to 3 count was but a shell as compared to the Illinois aggregation which will face the husky and powerful Gophers tomorrow. During the last week Coach Zuppke, the "Big 3" wizard mentor last year, has been in the Illinois coaching and has his two stars, Pogue and Clark, ready for the important fray. Illinois so far this season has shown but faint signs of its last year's championship form; but Saturday, with the battle hinged on the result, it is an assured fact that all the reserve strength Zuppke can command will be exerted in the game. There will be a lot of new football springing in this game and the Illinois team have been saving up their best for this struggle in hopes of landing their second title.

Gophers Powerful.

The Minnesota team's real strength is not known. It is said the Gophers are represented by an powerful aggregation as ever in the school's history, and Coach Williams has drilled them thoroughly in modern football. The last season is not a severe handicap to the team, as others have fitted into the machine play almost as well as the disqualified captain. They have been fortunate in escaping injuries, just the reverse of Illinois, who have been hampered severely through ill luck. On weight Minnesota has a decided advantage, but the Gophers have no two such men as Pogue and Clark in open field running and that is what counts in a close game. It is doubtful if the teams will play with fate on an extreme open game with one obtaining a decided lead, with luck even in the break of the game, it is doubtful if Illinois should win, if Pogue and Clark are fit for the struggle.

The undefeated and confident Wisconsin team meets Chicago at Chicago tomorrow. The Badgers should have a close game, as in previous games all point to a Wisconsin victory by a good count, but Chicago must be given an outside chance to beat the home state. The Badgers are All-Western material and will likely prove the equal of Pete Russell, the lone hope of the Maroons. Man for man, the Badgers outclass the Maroons. Deane, this fact, Chicago pay "slip one" for Wisconsin, for it loses a large percent of its playing powers on a foreign field. Coach Agg has been preparing for this game with right and main. The Wisconsin team will have a strong bunch of Stagg football to show tomorrow to win.

Iowa-Nebraska.

Iowa plays Nebraska and a tight game is expected. Nebraska since defeating Notre Dame can lay just claim to the title of the west, and they are expected to beat the opposing team. Indiana, a weak conference eleven, plays Washington and Lee, an intersectional contest. Their opponents, however, are not the doughy W. and J. team who twice put terrible crimp into Yale. Michigan plays Syracuse and it is doubtful if Yoe's team can beat the Mark easterners. In the state games Marquette plays Lawrence, and Lawrence may treat her followers to a victory. The Michigan Aggies, claimants to the western title, play the Oregon Aggies, far western team, and it looks like a problem of the title of the score will be for the conquerors of the Michigan varsity.

In the east the schedule is rather a bad looking affair—the full between Yale and Princeton to follow when Yale and Princeton start the first game of the Big Three. Colgate is to invade Yale's den, and unless Yale has been whipped into shape after its two disastrous defeats, the Blue will sustain another shock. Colgate, headed by Coach Bankart, is a scrappy, aggressive aggregation, and has drubbed the Army in one game. Yale declares football is "sick" at New Haven, but if Colgate wins, the title of "dead" will be more appropriate.

Harvard Meets Penn.

Harvard, after losing to Cornell, the strongest team in the east, will tackle Penn State and should win, although the State athletes have won a lot of games this year. Princeton, undefeated, plays Williams, whom they should walk over with ease. Cornell should not have to exert much of her strength against Virginia. Dartmouth should have little trouble in disposing of Amherst, and the Army and Navy have easy games. Cornell and Princeton, conquerors of Harvard and Dartmouth, are now standing on enviable ground of prominence. The Orange and Black Princeton have eradicated their old weaknesses and are destined to become a big factor in later games. Since the defeat of Harvard and Yale,

POLKEY IS TRIMMED IN OSHKOSH BATTLE

Fred Fulton Gives Polkey Terrible Punishment in Fifth Round and Bout Is Stopped.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Oshkosh, Wis., Oct. 29.—Arthur Polkey is possessed of a rugged disposition, but when you have said that you have said it all. Fred Fulton sent Polkey to the mat twelve times in the fifth round of their scheduled ten round bout here Thursday night and Polkey refused to take the count of ten at any time. When the bell ended the round, Chairman Linger of the state athletic commission settled the affair by stopping the overcast mill.

Very one-sided it was after the third round. The first three sessions were of the Sunday school order. Polkey became puffed in the fourth when Fulton opened a tin ear with a right to the jaw and began to mix it. That was just what Fulton wanted. He sailed into Polkey, swung right and left, and had Art in a bad way when the session ended.

The first punch in the fifth, a right hook to the jaw, put Polkey down for the count of nine. He came back, eager for more and ran into another of the same order. This time he bobbed up like a rubber ball, but a hard left to the stomach doubled him up. Ten times he went to the mat before his seconds threw a towel into the ring. Commission rules do not allow this and Art hit the floor two more times before the round ended. Linger thought it time to declare a halt and declared the affair off.

In the semi-windup, Teddy Hayes of Milwaukee was outpointed by Young White of Oshkosh in six rounds. Battling Ernie of Corky Jones won in four rounds and Jack Carney won a decision over Pecky McCann in six rounds. Harry Stout refereed.

White Is Favored.

Milwaukee, Oct. 29.—Charley White, with his "knock-em-dead" left hook, and Matt Wells, holder of the championship lightweight belt of England, met tonight for ten rounds, no decision at Milwaukee. Wells is a speedy Britisher and this will be his first bout in the west, and he will leave for England shortly to defend his title belt. White is a favorite in the bout as Wells is an aggressive fighter, and Chicago followers of the Hebrew boxer look for him to knock out Wells in the latter rounds.

ILLINOIS IN TRIM TO MEET MINNESOTA

Zuppke Puts Full Strength Into Practice for Gophers—Harvard's Hospital List Grows.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 28.—Illinois regulars weathered the final scrimmage before the battle with Minnesota without a scratch. Today there is nothing but confidence in the Illinois camp. Zuppke, after a sensational series of attacks, which culminated in touchdowns on the freshmen, declared: "That looks like the 1914 team in action."

The Illinois was given a hard drill on defense also. Coach Jones' freshmen used every Minnesota strategem displayed by the Gophers in this year. Zuppke spent much time with Klein, who probably will start against Minnesota at left half back, as Zuppke probably expects to continue his plan of withholding Pogue until the psychological moment.

Pogue caught punts and practiced running tonight. With three more days it is hoped the great open field runner will be able to play. "Potsy" Clark was in fine fettle and ran through the freshmen almost at will. With the exception of Pogue, every cripple has recovered and Zuppke will hurl his whole strength against the men from the north. Illinois so far has not shown its hand, the rosters believe. They don't think any aggregation can stop Zuppke's plans, which are practiced secretly at night in the big armory.

Back Morrill Wiggin and Hal Dammun, Harvard's best guard, joined the hospital squad this afternoon during the hardest scrimmage of the season. Both boys picked up muscle bruises, but are expected to be right for Penn State.

During the hour's scrimmage with the second team the varsity playing every member of the squad able to dress, scored three touchdowns. Enright at right half in five rushes from midfield made the first score. Rollins and Horween, subbacks, tumbled the other touchdowns later. The second team used a so-called Princeton forward pass today which gained repeatedly. Watson started the scrimmage as varsity quarterback.

Yale Takes Brace.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 28.—Yale today offered its only scrimmage of the week, the varsity struggling through a ten minute playing period against the ineligible, who contained Harry Legore at fullback. The ineligible did not try the varsity defense, but the regulars twice took the ball from midfield, all the way to touchdowns. "Brie" Waite making both scores. No long runs were made. Conroy, who played guard last year, and Way, the former center, were used at tackle for the first time, and King of the scrubs was tried at right guard. Markle, of last year's freshmen, was at right halfback. Guy Hutchinson joined the coaches.

BADGERS ARE READY FOR MAROON TUSSELE

Wisconsin Players Expect and Are Confident of Victory Over Staggs' Team at Chicago.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Oct. 29.—The Badgers are set for one of the hardest football tussles of the season Saturday, when Chicago will be met on Staggs' field. With the exception of "Red" Krews, the coming champions are in fit shape for the match, which will determine which team is to remain in the race to battle the Illinois and Gophers for the western title. Captain "Buck" Dick expects victory, although there is not the optimism that prevailed last week, since the game is being played away from home, with a chance of a couple of Staggs' tricks creeping in for scores.

No less than twelve hundred students and alumni of the university have purchased tickets for the game, and will leave on special trains Friday and Saturday for Chicago. The team left at noon today.

"Chicago is a fearful bunch of players on their own field," said Coach Juneau today. "We expect to win, but the score will be close."

Wisconsin supporters saw only one weak spot in the Badger team, namely the center and guards. Much coaching has been given Pottinger, Hancock and Gardner, and it is now expected that the entire team is a stronger one than faced Ohio last week. Byers and Smith are in trim and followers look for some spectacular work on the part of these two men.

For Chicago, Russell is the only man Wisconsin fears. In an open field, Russell is said to be the equal of Pogue, but Wisconsin believes it has a man to cope with him, he being Captain Buck.

Eddie Plank, who gained the name of "Evergreen Eddie," because of his good work during the last summer, wants to last two more seasons in baseball. He intends to show Connie Mack that he isn't through, as the Athletics' leader stated when handing the southpaw his release.

Bill Coughlin has been re-engaged as manager of the Scranton club of the New York State league.

A MAN'S MAN.

There is something plain, something substantial, something lovable about Governor Philipp that the people, not the politicians, who come in contact with him can not get away from. He is not a politician. He is not a finished orator. He is not a man filled with rhetorical phrases, with the gulps and quirks of the finished and polished spell-binder. He does not tear his collar from his throat, rip off his coat, wave his arms and push his hands through his hair, as do some orators, but what he says sinks in and is worth considering. It does not matter whether he addresses a room full of smooth, oily politicians or a hall full of working men. His talk is the same. He does not mince words. He does not disguise figures and facts with cleverly worded sentences and eloquently arranged pauses. Be it a delegation of bankers or a crowd of farmer boys, he is able to meet them all on an equal plane and give them some good, common sense talk that deserves consideration. Governor Philipp is a man's man. He is not a lady's man. He was born a poor boy and he has risen by his own worth and labors to be the man he is. He does not fail to remember he was a barefoot farmer's boy once and he glories in the opportunity to aid other poor boys to succeed in life. He does not cater after society. He does not seek reputation and empty bubbles, but lives his life plainly and simply. He is a man's man, every inch of him, and those who fail to appreciate his worth and value to the state of Wisconsin at this time of its transition from the ultra progressive to the saner and more conservative form of government miss the opportunity of their life. Philipp is not politician enough to surround himself with a corps of fawning satellites, with a ring of special appointees whose duty it is to cater and bow to his back and nod, but the men who have named for office are men's men also and he is surrounding himself with business people whose object is to give Wisconsin a business administration if he given half a chance.

MILITARY DRILL IN SCHOOLS.

President A. T. Hadley of Yale is the first college president to come out for a broad course of military training for college students. The movement for better military preparation has led many people to favor introducing it into colleges and high schools. This is a matter on which there are many points of view. Most people would admit, however, that a certain amount of such work is very useful to any boy.

Performance of military exercises, movements, and evolutions under a good drillmaster, should give a boy an erect posture. People stoop too much. They cram down their lungs into a narrow box of bone, when the organ was meant to be free and loose. The body misses its fresh air and becomes stagnant.

There is too much shuffling and shuffling along the streets by these stooping people. Going along with their eyes on the ground, they look discouraged or discouraged, which is depressing and depressing. The fellow with head erect looks hopeful, and inspires confidence.

Military drill also makes boys quickly responsive to commands. The human mind naturally works slowly. If unused to acting in company with others, the order of a commander seems to run up against some blank wall of slow thought. So it is that the bunch of raw recruits are all over the street. Their mental reaction is slow, and their nerves and muscles don't keep time with their minds. As they practice the taking and receiving of orders, these faculties become alert and responsive and the drill acquires precision and uniformity.

Modern life calls for quick thinking and immediate reactions. And experience that promotes these acquirements has great value. The sense of rhythm and the enthusiasm of numbers make any kind of a drill by companies of people an invigorating and awakening experience. Boys are never tired of playing soldier. They would find such drills as a part of school or college work, physically stimulating and mentally pleasurable, to say nothing of the possible military value.

METROPOLITAN SMART ALECKS.

A correspondent from a suburban town writes as follows: "Of those smart Alecks in the big metropolitan newspapers would devote less space to burlesquing the news items sent in from villages like this, and more energy to getting news accurate, they would have more subscribers."

This correspondent goes on to detail one favorite way these big newspapers have of making their columns seem up to date. If they get hold of a news item from the country that seems interesting but rather old, they will print a date line on it so as to make it appear that it happened the day before the paper was published, when it may be weeks or months old. That makes the paper look up to date, and not many people know the difference.

Still a newspaper can't fool people indefinitely. A paper that does that kind of thing over and over again will get a reputation for carelessness and worse.

The home town paper, published in the community where it gets most of its business, can not play these little tricks. It realizes that every misstatement of fact, even though slight, hurts the paper, and it works 365 days in the year for accuracy.

From the number of automobiles being sold in the rural districts, the farmer's family is evidently no longer satisfied with such recreations as sitting on the piazza and counting the number of machines that pass in a day.

These bonds of European government may be all right and in all probability they are. But if your money is in the home savings bank, you aren't grabbing at the newspaper every day to see if anything has happened to affect the credit of the governments that owe you money.

It is an excellent idea for merchants to arrange attractive store windows, also to advertise in the newspapers so that the people come around and look at the displays thus arranged.

It was stated at the recent convention of hotel stewards, that the favorite dish of Americans is fried chicken. As broiled lobster costs more, a good many people prefer it.

It is claimed that a stenographer can't get a job nowadays unless she is good looking, but if she wears stylish clothes that may do equally well.

The demonstration of canning fruits and vegetables being given in some places will not be largely attended so long as you can get preserves charged at the grocers.

It is surprising with what unanimity the people with incomes of $1,999 and less are favoring the proposition to reduce the income tax exemption to $2,000.

Mystery No. 1.
As the funeral cortege mournfully wended its way towards Merryvale cemetery, the door of the thirty-fourth carriage was swung open and a stranger with a large mustache and a clean collar leaped in with a muffled shout and sank into the one vacant seat.

Each of the 234 carriages (it was a large funeral for the defunct was a popular officer of the Master Button Makers) was now full.

Imra Larkins, sitting in one corner of the thirty-fourth carriage and partly disguised himself by holding a hand over his mouth, suddenly dropped his hand and leaned towards the stranger.

"Excuse me," he hissed, "but are you an invited member of this funeral?"

For answer the stranger opened his mouth to its full extent, disclosing two black teeth of gold, set with a ring of diamonds.

"You!" shrieked Imra Larkins, and swooned. Laughing harshly, the stranger leaped out of the carriage again and disappeared in his own dust. Imra Larkins, riving, stopped the funeral, but it was too late. The coffin contained nothing but a handful of cigarettes.

Get out after money right.

But my friend, he is eighty-one years old.

DANISH GOVERNMENT TO IMPROVE MINING OF COAL IN GREENLAND

Copenhagen, Oct. 29.—The Danish government is taking steps to mine coal in Greenland more intensively. This is due to the fact that it is difficult now to buy English coal in Denmark. The coal famine in this country is so serious here that the government is planning to relieve the situation by cutting wood from the government forests. Steps are also being taken to increase the production of peat.

Coal has heretofore been mined in Greenland only in an experimental way, but the deposits there, in the opinion of experts, are very extensive. The heating qualities of Greenland coal, however, are not regarded as equal to the English variety.

The government is also taking a new interest in the copper mines of this far northern colony, thinking that the mines are capable of considerable development which would be profitable at the present time.

Arterio-Sclerosis

or hardening of the arteries is perhaps the first apparent change in the blood vessels that indicates beginning degeneration.
After a time the inner-lining of these hardened arteries softens, ulcerates, and breaks down, resulting in aneurism, embolism, apoplexy and paralysis. This condition of the vessels is associated with high blood pressure, headaches, kidney disease, Bright's disease, often with rheumatism, asthma, bronchitis, gallstones, gravel, etc.
Statistics and reports show a percentage of cures on the Milk and Rest Treatment, that cannot be equaled by any other treatment in these almost hopeless cases. A New York physician said: "I know of nothing else that even helps them."

AT THE MAJESTIC.

"The Juggernaut" and Other Pictures. It must surely be a source of satisfaction to Majestic patrons that "The Juggernaut," the colossal of modern railroad dramas, shown to night for the last time, is the first of a series; it will be followed by another picture every week of a similarly high quality.

It is unnecessary to say anything here about "The Juggernaut," as those who saw it last night were so impressed with it that they have told about it far and wide.

Francis X. Bushman appears in the next of the series, with Beverly Bayne playing the leading roles in "The Juggernaut," the colossal of modern railroad dramas, shown to night for the last time, is the first of a series; it will be followed by another picture every week of a similarly high quality.

The third of the series, shown on Nov. 1 and 2, is "The Island of Re-creation," by Cyrus Townsend Brady. Miss Edith Storey appears in this six-reel Blue Ribbon Vitaphone. One week later Miss Anita Stewart and Earle Williams will appear in "The Sins of the Mothers," a gripping five-act play produced by Ralph Ince, the same genius who made "The Juggernaut" such a wonderful production.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

"Birth of a Nation" Will Long Retain Its Supremacy.

As the world advances, should it happen in this time and while he still has his wonderful grasp, perhaps Mr. Griffith may find a subject to produce that will mean infinitely more to all the people that will be bigger and grander, and entail inconceivably more expense and difficulty, but until such a time comes, if it ever does, his "Birth of a Nation" spectacle, covering as it does the whole range between the two distinct conditions of a great country and what came out of it, to a glorious conclusion, will remain the high water mark.

It shows what can be done, it is true, and most people believe that what has been done can be done, yet Shakespeare, hundreds of years ago, proved what it was possible to do with the English language—and still he has not been surpassed or even approached to this day and likely never will be.

See "The Birth of a Nation" when it is presented at the Myers theatre any day next week and you will warmly agree with all you have read of it.

The full and splendid musical score by Karl Breil and conducted at each showing by an especially trained symphony orchestra, alone, is worth crossing a state lengthwise to hear, and this is but one of the crowning features of the glorious presentation.

AT MYERS THEATRE.

Managers state that the advance sale of seats for "The Birth of a Nation" is the largest in the history of the house, which is the oldest theatre in southern Wisconsin.

AT THE PRINCESS.

"In the Sunset Country," on Saturday. An old time western drama, with all the accoutrements of such a picture. There is a demand for such pictures, so this one with Sherman, Bridge and Luella Maxim playing the leads with customary gusto, should be well received. The scenes are most realistic, while the photography is good. The story, which verges on the melodramatic in several places, holds the interest all the time.

This interesting feature will be seen at the Princess tomorrow.

JANESVILLE SHOW OPENS ON MONDAY

Rink Building Being Transformed for Osacation.—Booster Sale Week to Attract Also.

Preparation for the big "Made in Janesville" exhibit which opens Monday at the Auditorium on River street, is rapidly rounding the large building into a great industrial show. Through-out the past several days local business houses and firms have been engaged in erecting booths and in the decorating and placing of their products. Some very elaborate booths are being built and aside from an industrial education from a local standpoint the show will also be one of great beauty.

Through the center of the building are the larger exhibits flanked on either side with side aisles. On the opposite side of the aisles there will be additional booths. New and larger electric lights today were being installed to illuminate the building more than ever before.

The show will last throughout next week. Together with the "Made in Janesville" show there will be the big refund sale of the merchants of the city which, like the industrial exhibit, will be on throughout the week. Chairman Amos Rehberg of the retailers' committee of the Janesville Commercial club has matters in shape at the present time to the extent where the sales next week are expected to eclipse anything of similar nature arranged by the Commercial club and the committee.

"THE JUGGERNAUT" CREATES SENSATION

Started Spectators See Terrific Wreck at Majestic.

Imagine your feelings if you saw an express train laden with human lives rushing toward a trestle that you knew would not hold it; if you saw the President of the railroad dashing madly to intercept the flying train because it carried his daughter; if you saw the frenzied race all unsuccessful as the express strikes the trestle—girders snap, it aways, and the monster locomotive plunges into space carrying cars and passengers with it to a fearful destruction in black waters below.

Such were the feelings of the spectators who crowded the Majestic last night to see Anita Stewart and Earle Williams in "The Juggernaut." The picture deserved the very highest praise; it fulfilled every claim made for it in the advertising—and even more. In the big thrilling wreck scene there were two thrills that were not mentioned, one when the locomotive, partly submerged, blew up, and the other when the last car of the train poised nearly on end—before it finally tumbled headlong into the swirling waters. Also there was the remarkable acting of William Dunn as Philip Hardin. And the musical accompaniment offered the picture by Mr. MacFarland should by all means be mentioned.

"The Juggernaut" will be shown again tonight at 7:15, 8:30 and 9:45.

BACK TO STAGE AFTER 15 YEARS

Julia Arthur.

Theater-goers who can recall the days of a decade and a half ago when Julia Arthur, now Mrs. Benjamin P. Cheney, Jr., of Boston, was one of the brightest and most capable stars on the dramatic stage, will be more than pleased at the information that after her retirement of fifteen years she is again to be seen on the boards where she made such a decided success years ago.

How Thin People Can Put On Flesh

Thin men and women—that big, hearty, filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folk the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation, are probably sadly out of gear and need reconstruction. Cut out the foolish foods and funny savoury diets. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating and eat with every one of those a single Sargol tablet. In two weeks note the difference. Let the scales be the judge. Five to eight good solid pounds of healthy, "stay-there" fat may be the net result. Sargol aims to charge weak, stagnant blood with millions of fresh new red blood corpuscles—to give the blood the carrying power to deliver every ounce of fat-making material in your food to every part of your body. Sargol, too, mixes with your food, to prepare it for the blood in an easily assimilated form. Thin people tell how they have gained a month while taking Sargol and say that the new flesh stays put. Sargol tablets are a careful combination of six of the best assimilative elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant, harmless and inexpensive, and all good druggists in this vicinity sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back as found in every large package. The Heart of Night Wind

A Story of the Great Northwest

By VINGIE E. ROE

Illustrations by Ray Walters

Copyright by Dodd, Mead and Company.

BY MR. DODD, THE SUN WAS SHINING above the peaks and the fog had vanished from the valleys, and although it was late fall there was no feeling of the death of the year. On the contrary, there was a sense of bustle and hurry and work beginning with the advent of the rains. The sidewater slough was bankfull and mud-brown with thick grass and water growths along its edges. The stranger unconsciously drew great breaths of the sweet air of the high hills and began to feel dimly something of their charm.

John Dally was everywhere, looking at this, lending a hand at that, shouting some good-natured instruction here and there, overseeing with an eagle eye each minute detail of the work.

One of the new owner's first impressions was that in this man he had an object of great value. He was just thinking this when there came one long blast from the donkey over the ridge and the men dropped their tools in their tracks, the two on the springboards jumped down, leaving the saw just where the call had caught it, far out on one side, and the foreman came up to him.

"Dinner time, Mr. Sandry," he said, smiling. "I 'spect you're pretty hungry."

"What?" cried Sandry. "Why, I hadn't thought of it! Is it possible we've been here five hours?"

"Sure. Time goes fast in the hills." They began to climb the trail, the men straggling out ahead and behind, the youngest forging forward in the eagerness of youth and healthy appetites, the older characters, all of them hardened woodmen, taking it more leisurely.

Before they were half way up, however, Sandry was breathing heavily.

"Might I ask," said Dally, "something about the change in the company?"

"Certainly. There has simply been an outright sale of the interests, all of which, or nearly all, I bought from Dillingworth & Fraser. A fifth, I believe, is still owned by a Mr. Rakeham, who is somewhere in South America. I have come out to take absolute charge and learn the timber business."

"I see. And you've had no experience?"

"None," said Sandry a little shortly. "Maryanne Humphrey—but my feet is tender!" complained a voice behind. Sandry glanced quickly back. Three lumberjacks were plodding up the slope, their seamed and weathered faces set intently on dinner. On one, a red-headed chap of some thirty-six or eight, powerful and rugged, he set his sharp eyes.

"But I'm acquiring it," he finished, "rapidly. Discharge that man."

Dally did not turn.

"I can't," he said, "he's just quit."

CHAPTER IV.

Old Reins in New Hands.

The East and the West had met. It was apparent in every essential that had to do with Sandry and his men in common.

It showed when he sat among them at the head of the long table, in the way he used his hands, his knife and his food. It glared when he spoke, it paraded in his clothes, and most of all it stood forth pitilessly when he sat by himself at night in the plain little room under the dripping eaves. They were nearly always dripping, the pane behind the spotless curtains was always black and glittering, there was nearly always the shut-in silence that rain imposes—that dense silence, listening and lonesome.

Sometimes, to be sure, it was only a little Oregon mist that saddened the night outside, but it had the same effect on the young man from the midst of life in New York.

He was East and he knew it. Also, the men had known it from that first speech in the doorway of the cook-shack. They spoke of him among themselves as "Dillingworth," accompanying the word with grins, tasting its flavor as delicately as any bespectacled professor of the East dallying with a new derivative.

Nowhere in the world is discernment brought to a finer point than in the lumber camps and mills of the Northwest, among the floating gentry of the pike and peavey, the knee-laced boot and the "turkey," who pass here and there.

He Stood Silently Watching the Work Go Forward.

And there with the seasons, picking critically at the speech and doings of many places.

Also, nowhere is there a stronger prejudice against any manifestation of personal superiority, any exploitation of what may be least of the Cascades. To them the man and the place are one—East and Easterner.

They felt for him that contempt which only the seasoned feel for the inexperienced. And with the quickness which was his characteristic, the new owner sensed the feeling among them. It only added to that jumble of sensations and impressions which had crowded thick upon him from the first and which he had had no time to assort and get under control. He had simply laid them away for future attention.

In the meantime he went quickly at the work of settling himself in the new environment. A load of lumber was brought up the slough on the punt from the mill at Toledo and four men were put to building a small office. It was set at the edge of the slough, a bit below the cook-shack, where it commanded from its two eastern windows and door the track, the roading donkey, the log-trail and the railway, and from the southern one the winding slough, the rest of the track and the lower railway, where the donkey engine left the logs, its duty done. After that they rolled down with much splashing to the narrow ribbon of water which, with every flood tide backed in from the bay, lifted them high and trundled them, grinding and groaning, slowly down, perhaps to the mill at Toledo, perhaps to be laced together with mammoth chains, built into a great raft and towed out to the ocean to voyage along the coast, down to southern California or up to Portland. A tiny, wheezy tug fussed about the backwater for the express purpose of starting the monster rafts out on the ebb.

Inside the new office were installed a roll-top desk, a case of books, a map or two and several chairs, beside a small stove. Here, with the four pine walls around him, Walter Sandry at last looked around and called himself at home. The drawers of the new desk were full of documents and memoranda, the history, with statistics and records down to the minutest detail, of the Dillingworth Lumber company.

These he set himself to master as his first step toward the vast golden goal of the dream that had brought him west.

Very shrewdly he decided to take nothing out of the capable hands of his foreman. There had been a sort of tense pause in the camp pending this development. When it became apparent that things were to go on as usual the work went forward as if a line had been loosened.

Big John Dally had gone about during the few days of uncertainty with the untroubled calm of a quiet nature, though there was a small, a very small ache somewhere inside him. Ever since he could remember, his life had been cast in Dally's lumber camp—when his father, old John Dally, had logged with oxen on the eastern slopes of the Coast range and there was no jerkwater railroad to Yaquina bay.

When a 200-foot fir had tottered out of line and sent the old man forever into silence in the roaring thunder of its fall, the boy John, at seventeen, had picked up the reins of government in the camp and carried on the work abashed and aided by that efficient general, his mother. With the years of his young manhood he had worked, following the wilderness progress pushed it backward to the bay, seeing little of the outside world save perhaps for a trip, once in three years, to Portland or down to San Francisco, and always during the past it had been the Dillingworth Lumber company into whose vast holdings the camp had cut its way.

Always there had been no hand of power in the hills save his own, no supervision excepting the annual visits of some member of the firm who went over things, nodded, estimated, took figures and went away. He had carried on his camp himself, fought since he could remember with the Yellow Pines company, whose holdings were vast as those of the Dillingworth, and had not thought of change.

When Walter Sandry settled quietly down with no voice in the doings of the camp, Dally drew a good breath and went ahead once more.

As for the new timber magnate, he sat down at the new desk on the first day of his occupancy of the little office on the slough's edge and wrote his first letter.

It was on a printed letterhead:

Dillingworth Lumber Company,

Toledo, Oregon.

Dear Dad: Excelsior! I fancy I'm on top of the world. The job you could keep in here for an hour's chat. The country would amaze you as it has me with its mighty bigness. You feel like an atom crawling on the sea's floor—too small to count. The hills are like our beloved Catskills, only they are their wild cousins from the wilderness, unkempt and savage.

There is wealth here, Dad, untold wealth and I intend to get a handful of it. The timber is unoccupied. It reaches away to the Siletz reservation on the north—and on beyond. These Indians come into camp once in awhile with baskets, a timid sort of people, fishers, not fighters. The stumpage is magnificent. We are the company, though we have a rival, a formidable one, the Yellow Pines, which operates to the south of us. I have met none of their people as yet, but my foreman tells me there is, and always has been, bad blood between us.

Well, dear old chap, I must not weary you. Write me all the happenings that concern you there. Tell Higgins if he neglects one thing about you, I will skin him alive when I come home for a flying trip.

I hope, sir, you are feeling comfortable and will go into the winter in good shape. When the spring comes on I believe we can bring you out here with comfort—the Pullman service is smooth as glass across continent. And I know the trip would benefit you.

As he wrote these words the young man's bright blue eyes softened like a woman's and a grim line settled about his lips. He knew, on the word of the greatest specialist of two continents, that the dignified old gentleman to whom they were addressed, a white-haired gentleman with the finest bearing and the gentlest heart, tied irrevocably to an invalid chair, had at the most but a scant year to live. Yet he wrote of hope and travel and returning health, wrote determinedly with a force that must communicate something of its light to the lonely wreck left by the tide of life stranded at the edge of that mighty, flowing stream, the metropolis.

He finished the letter with a commendation so tender, so indicative of a great affection, that it did not sound like a man's, a son's to a father—rather like a daughter's to an ailing mother, signed, sealed and stamped it, and sat for many minutes holding it in his hand, staring hard with drawn brows at the yellow pine of the new walls. Again the faint shadow of sadness, of regret, flickered from the past across his features. Then he sighed, rose with his graceful quickness and straightened his shoulders. As he closed the desk and stepped from the office he felt that he had gathered up the reins of the new life.

Dinner Stories

The small boy had quarreled violently with his little neighbor across the street. His aunt told him that he must go to his little friend's house, kiss him and say he was sorry. The youthful belligerent demurred. "You go kiss him, auntie," he said. "I might bite him."

"The cook is leaving tomorrow, John."

"What's the matter? Don't we pay her enough?"

"She says it's very strange that every time she has an afternoon off our automobile is in the repair shop. She thinks we do it on purpose."

"How did you get rid of that life insurance agent so quickly?"

"Oh, I'm always prepared for those fellows. I keep a large bottle of cod liver oil in plain sight on my desk, and when an agent calls I greet him with a hollow cough."

"Are you satisfied with your son's progress in his studies at college?" "Yes, he's doing very well, but he doesn't deserve any credit for it. He broke his arm in football practice the first week he was there, and since that time he hasn't been able to do anything but study."

Little Johnny was in bed with measles.

"Won't you please ask my teacher to come and see me?" he asked his mother one day.

One night four college boys went gayly forth to serenade two belles of the town. Arrived at the house of the fair ones, they took their stand under the correct window, as they thought, and for some time made the night more or less melodious.

They were preparing to leave when the jolly old father of the girls appeared at the front door.

"Boys," said he, "we are much obliged. That is, I am much obliged for I happen to be alone tonight. I am sorry to say that the family's not in. But I thank you for coming. Maybe if you come again you'll have better luck. But next time, boys, if you do come when the girls are here, don't play to the bathroom window!"

Dorothy was so homesick at her first party, and cried so bitterly, that the hostess' mother suggested it would be better for her to go home. Dorothy accepted the idea, and a few minutes later, upon answering a timid knock at the door, the hostess' mother found Dorothy, bathed in tears.

"Well, Dorothy, I am glad to see you again. Did you decide to come back to us?"

"No'm, I forgot to say I had such a nice time."

Money-Making Ways of Using Want Ads

No. 10—Series of Want Ads for Business People

Experienced advertisers will tell you there is no such thing as the best Want Ad campaign. A Want Ad has a certain definite purpose ahead of it. When it does the business, it ceases to be of value.

There are more uses to Want Ads, however, than merely using one and then forgetting that the Want Ad columns exist.

If Want Ads bring business once, they can bring business again. But do not use the same Want Ad. Plan a series, so that you may change your Want Ad every few days.

Here are some ideas as to how a series, or "campaign," of Want Ads may be used:

THE FIRST WANT AD BUSINESS LUNCHES DELIVERED TO offices and factories or stores six different kinds of meat, 13 different kinds of vegetables and 26c worth of dessert to choose from. Call only 25c. Drop a postcard and ask our man to call.	THE SECOND WANT AD WHY GO OUT FOR LUNCH? WHY pay twice what you should pay? We deliver lunches direct to you. With great variety of meat, vegetables and dessert to select from; and charge only 15c and 25c. Give us your address at lunch hour. A postcard or phone call will bring our man to you.
THE THIRD WANT AD ONE WEEK'S LUNCHES FREE. If you will get ten persons where you work, to order our business lunches delivered on the premises, we will give you a free lunch every day for a week, free of cost. Get your order in right away!	THE FOURTH WANT AD SAVE 20 MINUTES AND 25c EVERY noon by having us deliver our 15c or 25c lunches to you. Better food, a large variety of meat, wholesome, you have more time to shop or rest during the noon hour. Telephone or write.

Think of Your Want Ad Plans Five Minutes a Day

No matter what kind of business you are in, spend five minutes daily thinking about "follow-up" Want Ads, and you will find that results are large.

Used in this way,

The Want Ad Feeds Business and Makes It Grow!

You'll find it worth while, when you do any painting or have it done for you, to ask your painter to tell you how many gallons you will need for the job.

Then order Devco Lead-and-Zinc Paint; as many gallons as he says. Arrange with the dealer to take back what isn't used.

You'll take back from a quarter to a half the quantity you order, as a rule; a direct saving of money to you. It has been proved many times. Order Devco.

LIBRARY CELEBRATING FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY

JANESVILLE INSTITUTION ONE OF THE OLDEST IN STATE—STARTED IN YEAR 1865.

RECEPTION SATURDAY

Board of Directors Invites Public to Building Saturday Afternoon and Evening.

This week Janesville celebrates the fiftieth anniversary of the institution of its library. From a meager beginning in 1865, housed in a couple of dark rooms in a business block downtown until 1915, the library has each year marked progress. A city's intellectual and higher ideals can readily be gauged in the activity of its library. And Janesville people have not been slow in awakening to this realization over the period of half a century since the institution saw its birth.

Miss Mary A. Egan, present librarian, after careful research and interviews among those who have followed with interest the path of expansion of the library, has collected the facts concerning the growth of this excellent feature.

Incidentally, the Janesville library is one of the oldest in the state. It dates back to the organization of the Young Men's Association (not the Y. M. C. A.), which was formed in 1865. This body developed in importance yearly, exercising greater or lesser influence on the community. The objects of the club were to maintain a library, institute literary and scientific debates and discussions and lectures. After a time their library numbered 2,500 volumes, a considerable number of books, since in that time books were expensive.

For a period of sixteen years this library flourished. Gradually its membership changed and the interest which brought it to its height of popularity gradually waned through death of the association's members and from various other causes. Seeing the possibility of the only library of the city becoming of little or no value under the condition of no head to direct its course, a number of women on Nov. 8, 1882, met in the parlors of the Myers Hotel to decide on a course to pursue to save the library from extinguishment and falling to ruin. They were to perfect an organization to purchase the volumes from the Young Men's association in the hope that the city might have a library.

Business methods in their determination that the city as a whole would profit, the ladies readily received encouragement. Each ward was assigned to certain women to canvass for subscriptions. Money was tight in that decade following the civil strife of the north and south, but their determination won.

Several people with special talent offered to give a performance for the library's benefit. Colonel Burr Robbins gave the ladies the entire receipts of a performance by his circus. This was the really the source of the largest amount secured by the ladies.

In February of 1883 the corporation papers of the Public Library association were granted by the secretary of state. The library had been purchased from the Young Men's association.

Rooms in the Bennett block accordingly were leased and fitted. Several magazines and newspapers were subscribed for and the late Mrs. Best was installed as librarian at the princely salary of $13 per month. In addition to her duties as librarian she was to care for the rooms.

No fee was charged for the use of this library except in the case of subscribers from out of Janesville. In this instance a deposit of one dollar was required to cover the cost of the book, this to be returned on receipt of the book again at the library. The hours were from 11 a. m. to 6:30 p. m., and in the evening from 6:30 to 8 o'clock, excepting Sundays and holidays. The rules were made extremely liberal as the library association intended to carry out the ideas of their name, to maintain a public library.

A year following the granting of the incorporation papers the library was turned over to the city of Janesville. At this time the institution had been brought into excellent order, its patrons were many, and the city was beginning to manifest a new interest in the work of the ladies who had labored to give the city one of the best libraries in the state at the time. The only consideration the ladies made in giving the institution to the city was that it was to be always maintained as a free library and that a free reading room be kept. Their gift to the city included 2,403 books, 644 reference books and some 350 pamphlets. Some of these early volumes are to be seen on the shelves in the present library. A number still bear the initials of the Young Men's association, the Y. M. A. stamp.

The rooms in the Bennett block, however, soon became overcrowded and it was necessary to move to the Norcross building. Here the library remained for seventeen years, patrons having to climb two flights of stairs to gain access to the rooms. Mrs. Best continued as librarian at salaries of twenty and twenty-five dollars per month.

Gradually with the aid of the city's annual appropriations the library grew and became more and more patronized. More assistants were gradually required and the rooms were crowded with books.

In the year 1901 the question of having a library building was agitated. It was further suggested that city appeal to Andrew Carnegie. Investigation was made as to the necessary money. After considerable correspondence the sum of $20,000 was obtained from the Carnegie fund. The Mildred estate gave $10,000 and the city of Janesville presented the lot.

On the first of June, 1903, the new building was thrown open for inspection and on Monday June 15, the same year, the first books were issued. Since this date progress has marked each successive year.

To commemorate in honor of the fiftieth anniversary, the library board has deemed it advisable to observe the occasion. They have decided to hold an open house throughout the afternoon and evening. After the supper hour there will be refreshments and music and an exhibit of relics and curios for the public. There will be no charge. The public is cordially invited to be present.

City Treasurer George W. Muenchow this morning showed that out of a total of $5,236.73 to be collected from property owners for street oiling, only $2,614.80 has been collected. Without the assessments are collected within a few days' time the amounts will be placed on the city tax roll.

WHAT CAUSES COLDS?

This question is asked every day. A cold is really a fever, not always caused by the weather but often due to disordered blood or lack of important food-elements. In changing seasons fat-foods are essential because they distribute heat by enriching the blood and so render the system better able to withstand the varying elements. This is the important reason why Scott's Emulsion should always be taken for colds, and it does more—builds strength to prevent sickness. Scott's Emulsion contains Nature's rare strength-building fats, so skillfully blended that the blood profits from every drop. It is free from harmful drugs or alcohol. Sold at drug stores—always get the genuine.

IF BACK HURTS USE SALTS FOR KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat if Kidneys Feel Like Lead or Bladder Bothers You—Meat Forms Uric Acid.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have headache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headache, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. The famous salts are made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless, inexpensive, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Don't Forget!

Coffee contains the drug, caffeine—about 2½ grains to the cup.

Some people use coffee for years and either forget or don't know that caffeine is a cumulative poison, working away in the system, insidiously undermining and destroying health.

Some of the signs are headache, heart flutter, sleeplessness, biliousness, and various stomach, kidney and liver troubles.

Of course, if one prefers his coffee, and is willing to put up with these "comforters," why—keep right on!

But, if one values health and real comfort, and the same time would enjoy a delicious, wholesome beverage, the thing to do is to quit coffee and use

Instruction for the Sinner

By REV. B. B. SUTCLIFFE
Assistant Superintendent of Miss. Moody Bible Institute of Chicago

TEXT—We have trespassed against our God, yet now there is hope. . . . We make a covenant with our God.—Ezra 10:2, 3.

This text is full of instruction for the sinner who would find peace for the conscience. It tells of the proper confession, the gracious comfort and the wise conduct for every sinner.

I. The proper confession for every sinner—"we have trespassed against our God." The Bible proclaims the fact that "all we like sheep have gone astray, we have turned every one to his own way," and "all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." Our history and our conscience bear witness to the truth of it. The present writer and reader must make the same humiliating confession: "I have trespassed against my God."

The evil thing is already done and the record is already made. The temptation to think that we can do enough good to blot out the evil is a subtle one. We cannot go back over the road and live it over in such a manner as to hide the record we have left. We sometimes say, "I wish I could go back and do it differently," but this refuses to turn back for us. The record is there and all we can say of it is, in the words of Pontius Pilate, "What I have written I have written." The words spoken that should have remained unuttered may be forgotten but they are all recorded. The deeds of evil we cannot undo. The sins are already committed and the sinner should not be so much exercised about what will happen in the future as about what has happened in the past.

There may be a difference in the number and character of sins committed; but trespass means to get over the fence or "out of bounds." God has set bounds for man to walk in and as far as the fatal results are concerned one might as well be a mile out of those bounds as merely a foot. God says that "he that keepeth the whole law and yet offendeth in one point is guilty of all." If a man's life depended on the strength of a chain, nine strong links would not avert the catastrophe resulting from a weak link that breaks. One sin is enough to put one "out of bounds." Therefore this is a proper confession for everyone to make, "I have trespassed against my God."

II. The gracious comfort for the sinner—"yet now there is hope concerning this thing."

In spite of the trespass whether large or small, every sinner has this hope. God says to all, "Come now and let us reason together: Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow." The natural thing for a sinner to do is to hide from the One who has been offended. This Adam did when God came into Eden after the fall. But not in judgment, but in grace does God come. Not to condemn but to save. In the future he will come to judge and to condemn, but today there is hope for all. The message from God's Word is, "Now is the accepted time, behold today is the day of salvation." Many say, "I will think about the matter," but the Lord says "today" at once, now, not tomorrow. Many have gone to a hopeless eternity just because they persisted in thinking about instead of accepting God's gracious offer of a present salvation. And this text proclaims a universal hope, including all who have trespassed. It is extended to everyone. Over and over God's Word declares that "Whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved." "Whosoever will may come and take of the water of life freely." "Whosoever believeth on him shall not perish but have everlasting life."

III. The wise conduct for the sinner. "Therefore let us make a covenant with our God."

This is not merely a covenant to turn over a new leaf or to mend our ways or any of the many expedients resorted to to give peace and rest to the troubled conscience, but it is turning to God, coming out from behind the tree to him who alone can blot out the record of the trespasses and give us a clean record. The words of the prophet are as true today as they were when uttered, "Let the wicked forsake his way and the unrighteous man his thoughts and let him return unto the Lord and he will have mercy upon him and to our God for he will abundantly pardon." There is abundant pardon with the Lord for every trespass and for every sin and the blood of Jesus Christ God's Son can blot out every mark and stain from the sinner's record.

THE BOY JOASH CROWNED KING (THE STORY.)

It all came of a bad marriage. For reasons of State, the good king Jehoshaphat married his son to the daughter of Jezebel. The chronicler speaks of Athaliah as "that wicked woman." Her phenomenal fierceness was all the more conspicuous because it appeared in one whose very sex is supposed to stand for gentleness. She was as unscrupulous as she was ambitious. In opposition to Hebrew law she seated herself upon the throne of Judah and fortified herself in her usurpation by cruelly murdering all possible claimants. Never was royal blood so profusely shed. All kin to the crown were supposed to be out of the way. Thus, this Lady Macbeth of Jewish history began her course of tyranny. Under her reign Baalism had its innings, so much so that a temple to the foul Sidonian god is known to have been built in Jerusalem. The temple was robbed of its furniture, if not of its very stones and timbers, to build the shrine to the rival of Jehovah. No wonder it was "a time of trouble, rebuke and blaspheming." Athaliah was even more fierce, powerful, and unscrupulous than Jezebel. But there was one unsuspected flaw in the iron of her tyranny. In the slaughter of the innocents, one little intended victim was overlooked. Jehoshaphat honored her sex as Athaliah disgraced it. What she did stands high among all the daring deeds of patriotism. By her courage she preserved the royal house of David from extinction. In the midst of the carnage, at the risk of her own life, she hurried the infant prince and his nurse into a little-used storeroom of the temple. Her husband, the high priest, was a party to this merciful plot, and from his commanding position was able to insure the success of it. . . . For six years the little prince was hid in the secret of the tabernacle. The temple was a place which Athaliah seldom troubled, and it is easy at any rate for parts of a great building to be overlooked. In this obscurely Joash lived, although all the while he was crowned with the white turban of a crown. He was faithfully guarded as the nation's greatest treasure. In his remarkable preservation the prophecy that David's lamp would never go out had fulfillment. But in this instance the lamp was perilously near extinction. . . . Jehoiada is a star in the Hebrew priesthood. Zadok and Abiathar are the other exceptions to the rule of dullness. The nature of the office is not such as to bring its holder into prominence. In this instance Jehoiada could not prevent the general destruction of the royal stock. What he did do was to bide his time and organize a counter revolution. And this he did with a prudence unimagined. The disinterested character of his patriotism did not admit of question. He aimed at nothing for himself. He averted civil war and achieved a bloodless revolution. The story is told with pictorial power. It is one of the most dramatic pages of history. The queen was allowed to wear out her rebellion by her despotism. At the same time she was surrounded in a web of security. Jehoiada, on his part, was all the while fostering the Jehovistic party. This he could do the more effectively since the queen had inadvertently left him in possession of the temple with its treasury, armory and fortress. When the time was ripe Jehoiada took the five captains of the guard into his confidence and showed them the infant heir to the throne. Now, soldiers who were willing to serve under Athaliah as long as they thought the house of David existed, when they learned that a scion of the old royal stock survived, the next step was to secure the presence of the largest company possible in the temple to witness the coronation and protect the king's person. This could be done without creating suspicion by detaining the Levites who, according to their course, would need to be attracted to the temple in the carrying of arms into the temple in closure. A sufficient supply could be had from the votive arms hung there by the victors of the day. The deposing of his forces by Jehoiada would have done credit to one of large experience in military affairs. The person who was the protection of the person was effective and spectacular. Standing on a raised platform between the two great pillars of the court, "Strength and Beauty," the crown was placed on his fair brow another thing was done which, under the circumstances, was very significant. The yellow scroll of the law was laid upon his head. He was to govern religiously. When this was done, hands were clapped, trumpets blown, and the cry, "God save the king," was raised. . . . At sound of the tumult, the queen rushed to the scene. She came alone. If guards had accompanied her from the palace, they had been stooped at the temple gate. Athaliah took in the import of the scene at a glance. She made one last and furious drive to recoup her fortunes. She stood upon her royal majesty, and ignored the illegitimacy of her own authority when she cried, "Treason!"

Half measures are usually weak measures. All Athaliah's energy counted her nothing, because she was not quite cruel enough. If she had others, she might have regained longer. After all, she was too suspicious. She left the old high priest in possession of the dilapidated temple. That sufficed to describe the evil attitude a woman can assume toward her offspring. "His mother (Athaliah) was a Jezebel," counselor to do wicked things. This account and the narrative in Second Chronicles are evidently from the same original manuscript. They afford an excellent example of the manner in which some parts of the Bible are made up of excerpts from lost and forgotten originals. The two accounts supplement each other in a helpful manner, and on their very face give evidence of the honesty of the editors. . . . The high priesthood, like the vice-presidency, was a sort of negative office. It needed a positive character like that of Jehoiada to lift it above inactivity. He stood pure and blameless in the midst of a bold, difficult, and far-reaching enterprise. . . . This romantic story of the hiding of the boy prince in the temple is altogether credible. Parts of a great building can be overlooked for long periods. It is said that the very existence of one of the chapels of the Vatican was forgotten for a series of years after its entrance had once been bricked up for some ceremonial purpose. . . . Hatred and resentment against tyrants is always cumulative. Athaliah's regency was oppressive. It was correspondingly unpopular. Its coming to an end was hailed with delight. Those were probably old-fashioned weapons with which the Levites armed themselves out of the temple armory. But their historic associations put extra courage into the hands of those who wielded them. . . . The temple was an asylum for one boy (Joash). Every boy should have right of asylum in the Church. It should be chief shelter and resort of youth.

INCREASED AND EFFICIENT. TWO PERMANENT IDEALS OF OUR SOCIETY.

General Booth once said characteristically, "Shake the napkin at every corner." He meant in that that the last hidden talent would be sure to roll out. Lowell says: "Use can make sweet the peaches' shady side." Evolution of talent comes by employment of it. Short of "full stature" and "perfect manliness of Jesus" is our measure. This is the ideal efficiency.

THE PEOPLE'S CLASSICS IN TWO VOLUMES.

A Distribution to the Readers of This Paper.

In response to an offer of $10,000 in prizes, more than 50,000 of the "plain people of America," as Lincoln loved to call them, sent to the publishers their favorite selections of poems, grave and gay; of song and story; of famous gems of history; of world-renowned orations and of apothegms of wisdom. Out of this vast array of contributions, U. S. Senator Allison and Admiral Dewey chose $40 as entitled to the awards for the best selections. That these unique volumes contain treasures to be had nowhere else is self-evident. What appealed to 50,000 people as the greatest, the best, the brightest, the most pathetic, the most humorous, the most consoling, the wisest words of counsel or admonition, must appeal to the masses with the same heart-stirring influence. "Heart Throbs" is a book for every mood. It is a book to pack in your valise when you travel, to while away many weary hours of loneliness or waiting. It is a book to keep with you at home for comfort, consolation or cheer. In short, it is a book that will find its way into the homes of the millions as the only book, aside from their books of devotion, they must have for their hours of pleasure, of relaxation, and of self-instruction. This fundamental thought was in our mind when we chose it as the very best means of providing an outlet for our thousands of readers. Our copious publishing daily explains the terms which make practically a gift-distribution.

CLINTON

Clinton, Oct. 28.—Morrison Greene, the small son of Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Greene, had the misfortune to fall from the back of a horse and break his right arm Monday.

Miss Louise Gilbertson spent Sunday in Rockford with Miss Adrina Bruce.

Miss Madeline Christiansen was able to return from the Beloit General hospital last Friday. She will rest up and regain her strength for a couple of weeks and return to her duties in the Nurses' training school.

A new kitchen is being built on the west side of the Methodist church and a new cook stove will be installed which will be a great help and convenience to the ladies of the church.

Doctors A. S. Wolston and C. W. Collier attended the meeting of the County Dental Society at Janesville Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Miller motored to Milwaukee Sunday, returning Monday evening.

Manager Miller of the Gem gave a free show at the Gem theater Tuesday evening. Needless to say, he had a good house.

Mrs. George Amos of Delavan was here Wednesday.

Master Morning George Huber has invited a large number of his playmates to a Halloween party at his home Friday afternoon. That the little folks will have a joyous time goes without saying.

Mrs. A. J. Boden returned Tuesday noon from her visit in Iowa.

Seventy men attended the meeting of the Public Interest Club Tuesday evening in the parlors of the Congregational church. Hon. L. C. Wadsworth delivered the address of the evening, his topic being, "Efficiency in management of State Affairs."

Mr. Whitely very cleverly showed the inefficiency, especially as to the financial and legislative affairs. His address was greatly enjoyed by all. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: P. M. Harris, Pres.; C. I. Smith, Vice-Pres.; Rev. W. W. Ireland, Sec. and Geo. W. Hare, Trans.

With such a set of officers the continuance of the splendid work of the club in the past is assured for the coming year. Of course, our local satellites, H. A. Moehlenpach and W. A. Mayhew, contributed their usual show of earnest eloquence, etc., without which no Clinton gathering would be complete. The supper furnished by Paul S. Hastings was unusually good, to which the men did ample justice.

The Clinton Athletic club will give a big dance at the City Hall Thanksgiving night.

Frank Niekern and Frank Roeder leave Monday to kill deer in the northern part of the State. R. E. Switzer also will go north this fall on a hunting trip, but as yet has not set an exact date.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Tucker of Harlowton, Mont., are here visiting Mrs. Tucker's sister, Mrs. Andrew Tillotson, and husband and relatives in Beloit.

Mrs. E. Wendenhausen and two boys of Chicago are visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Scott, who recently moved to California, has been called back to Chicago on a very important chemical research proposition. They visited Clinton relatives yesterday.

Miss Fay Horton of Picketts is spending some time at the home of Mr. Butler.

A number of old friends of Mrs. Nettie Billings of Arkansas were entertained at the home of Mrs. Allen on Friday.

Mrs. Moyle and daughter, Clara, are visiting relatives in the northern part of the state.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Holden visited at William Conway's Sunday.

Mrs. E. Rice, Walter Rice, Miss Helgeson and Mrs. Florence Bradford of Janesville, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hale.

Mrs. McCue and granddaughter, Gertrude McDonald of Chicago, are visiting Mrs. Will Cleland.

"Gets-It" for Corns, SURE as Sunrise!

Any Corn, With "Gets-It" on It, Is an Absolute "Goner!"

Yes, it's the simplest thing in the world to get rid of a corn—when you use "Gets-It," the world's greatest corn-remover. Really, it's almost a pleasure to have corns just to see them come off with

"Gets-It" Puts Your Feet in Clover.

"Gets-It." It just loosens the corn from the true flesh, easily, and then makes it come "clean off." 18 hours ends corns for keeps. It makes the use of tape, corn-squeezing, bandages, irritating salves, knives, scissors, and razors really look ridiculous. Get rid of those corns quickly, surely, painlessly—just easily with "Gets-It." For warts and bunions, too. It's the 20th century way. "Gets-It" is sold by all druggists, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

Sold in Janesville and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by Smith Drug Co. and Red Cross Pharmacy.

PITIFUL SIGHTS IN RUSSIAN RETREATS

Millions of Refugees Follow Gigantic Army in Retreat Before The Teuton Armies.

(By Carl W. Ackerman.)
Known, Russia, Oct. 29.—Back of the Russian retreat there is said to be nearly 3,000,000 refugees. I got a glimpse of what a terrible event a retreat is, at the railroad station last night and in the city today.

For a while the Russian retreat was so rapid that the fleeing civilians could not keep up and these—especially Jews—are returning to their empty homes.

Kowno must have been evacuated suddenly and in a panic. The stores are in the most dilapidated condition and the storekeepers and their families who have returned, stand about in their empty, dirty, destroyed shells, broken-hearted.

When we arrived at the station, a freight train came in bearing wounded Germans from the firing line. In several of the box cars were returning refugees. Bare footed women holed about in straw—their black and vari-colored shawls drawn tightly about them—frightened and cold.

The things they brought with them added another unbelievable aspect to the general destitution. I saw a woman with barely enough clothes to cover her body, bringing back a sewing machine. A boy and his father carried a lot of possessions and a white kitten.

In the city there remain the pitiful old women and men who could not undergo the hardships of miles and miles of traveling by foot. They had to stay during the bombardment of the town while the shells flew thick as black birds down the streets and over the city. No cellars or bomb-proof trenches hid them from the suffering must have been terrible.

Today they are trekking about the city, barefooted and leaning on old, old hand-made canes. Sunday they were in the churches, crawling about the altars for hours, silently repeating prayers and walking up to kiss the cross of the feet on the gold statue of Christ.

Some were kneeling or sitting in the deserted confessionals. I have seen but one Russian priest in Kowno and there are 25,000 people here.

Along the stone cobbled streets, rubble the peasants' wagons perhaps a mother and her family lying in the straw and the giant peasant walking along beside. Further back comes a family group, driving the cows. Everywhere there are German soldiers and groups of Russian prisoners marching from one part of the town to another.

Large auto trucks—in constant communication with the front—burry through the city. Big touring cars bearing officers are everywhere.

Such is Kowno today—a city formerly of 80,000 inhabitants, exclusive of the garrison for the nine forts. To the visitor, Kowno appears like a Southern town with but three or four palatial residences and hundreds and hundreds of negro huts.

The buildings aside from their wrecked appearance, are poorly constructed and badly furnished.
The city was damaged in two sections by the bombardment. The fronts of the houses on some streets bear evidences of machine gun fire.

The wall of the church across from city hall are splashed with blood and the heavy iron fence around the monument is split in some places as fine as kindling wood. Many large buildings were destroyed by fire.

Warnings of danger from cholera and fever are posted in all public places and the inhabitants and soldiers are forbidden to drink unboiled water or eat fresh fruit.

The sewage system of Kowno is bad. The winter has not yet set in and flies are everywhere in the hotels and restaurants which the Germans have re-opened, one eats with one hand and chases flies with the other.

Beer, books and cigars follow the German host. Beer is brought down here by boat over the Memel river and books and newspapers come by every post. The city is also re-stocked with cigars and cigars, for the fleeing Russians didn't leave enough behind to supply their abandoned soldiers.

Meat and wheat are plentiful and the inhabitants bake their own white bread, a luxury even in Germany today. The city appears to have more than its share of wounded and every available large building is turned into a hospital.

Dr. Prussian said the Russians abandoned 1200 severe cases, leaving only a few Red Cross nurses to care for them. A Russian doctor captured early in the war has been brought here to take charge of this hospital.

Curing Nervous Troubles.
Nervous troubles may be greatly helped, if not cured, by outdoor air, and an abundance of fresh air in the house.

Corinth, Miss.—I am a city tax

age. I was in a weak, run-down condition. My druggist told me about Vinol. I tried it and in a week noticed considerable improvement; I continued its use and now I have gained twenty pounds in weight, and feel much stronger. I consider Vinol a fine tonic to create strength for
